

2025 Mayme Walters Extension Homemaker Scholarship for a Graduating Senior

Who are the Gallatin County Homemakers?

Gallatin County Extension Homemakers are a part of the Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association (KEHA), founded in 1932 in cooperation with the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

Gallatin County Extension Homemakers work to improve the quality of life for their families and communities through leadership development, volunteer service and education. Members of Gallatin County Homemakers belong to traditional clubs that meet monthly, the Back to Basics Club, Cross County Club, Pine Ridge Club, Napoleon Club, and the Fun Time Quilt Club. Homemaker members also participate as mailbox members and special interest clubs such as our Embroidery Club, and Scrapbooking Clubs.

Gallatin County Homemakers is a service organization and give back to our community! This past year Gallatin County Extension Homemakers reported over 15,000 volunteer service hours.

The scholarship will be awarded based off your reason for applying, presentation and effort completing form (spelling/grammar), career plans/goals, honors and awards, community service activities, special activities/clubs and work experience.
